lerzog Replies in Council That Arabs Block Action to Curb Terrorism

By KATHLEEN TELTSCH Special to The New York Times UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., July --- Uganda demanded in the Security Council tonight that the Council condemn Israel in the strongest terms for its raid on Entebbe airport last Saturday night to rescue hostages held by pro-Palestinian h ackers. The Uganda Foreign Muister, Juma Oris, denied charges by Israet that President Idi Amin had collaborated with the guerrillas who seized the Air France lane over Greece on June 27. The next day the plane was llowed to land at Entebbe airport in Uganda after refueling Libya. It remained oo the ground in Uganda until Satur; day oight, when Israeli commandos raided the field. Earlier Criticism Explained as Campaign Point Made With 'Political License'

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, July 9 -President Ford said today that Ronald Reagan was qualified to serve in the White House and he appealed to his challenger to keep an open mind about the Republican nomination for Vice President.

The President's overture to Mr., Reagan at an informal White House news conference, appeared designed to foster Republican support for his own candidacy rather than to signal any clear preference for a running mate.

Mr. Ford said that it would be premature to "winnow" the list of Vice-Presidential possibil-Reagan Gets Only 5 of 9 Helities in his party and that he was not excluding anyone from consideration.

Not really. But that's certainly not the way the public relations concern for the chicken supplier remembers the deal.

Tha First Mystery

He says that the New York Carter people asked for the chicken at cost and got it. because they promised to publicize the sup-plier. Now, he contends, they have changed. their minds.

Which sent the company public relations man, Jeffrey Sussman of Daniel J. Edeman Inc., to his typewriter. In a telegram to the press, he ooted that the anonymous chickeo. was "the first mystery" of the 1975 convention.

Rather than pick a fight with the Carter people, Mr. Sussman remained mysterious: "The caterer simply decided to avoid any political entanglements and to shuo any commercial identification," he wrote. "A spokesman for the categor refused to give even the slightest hint. Those finger-lickin' delegates will just have to figure it out for themselves."

Mr. Sussman does not work for Frank Perdue or Paramount chickens. He represents Kentucky Fried Chicken. Their chick-en was boxed and placed oo each of the delegate chairs at the 1972 convention. At that convention, the chicken was donated.

amused "This party is not a mechanism to publi-cize the florist, the decorator or the cater-er." said Mrs. Bartle Bull, a member of tha planning committee. "Now that it's out, of course it's Kentucky Fried Chicken. It is oot a contribution and we're paying for it." On the amount of food and the bills, there was agreement all around. The Carter people were getting legs and wings, 50 cases of dessert, 450 gallons of soda pop and what Mr. Sussman described as "enough cole slaw for the 5,000 delegates; however much that is."

That, said Mrs. Theodore Sorensen, another member of the party committee, comes to 2,000 pounds of cole slaw, and the delivery-includes 500 pounds of cold cuts in case there's a chickenphobe. The caterer, bowever, is not supplying the 900 gallons of cold beer. That order went to another concern.

In Good Graces

Tha food hill comes to $12,750, and it won't have to be paid until after the dele-gates have left the flag-draped Hudson River pier where the gathering is to be held. And the Carter people are jo good graces. They have already paid a $7,000 deposit.

Other bills are expected from the Warren Covington Band, Your Father's Mustache and the Philadelphia String Band, all of which are being paid to provide the music. Now, said Mrs. Sorensen, the only prob-lem is the crowds. The party is strictly for delegates and one guest aplece. "Not for your sisters and your cousins or your children by the dozen," Mrs. Sorensen said, "Or anybody else, either."

family/style A Spot of Hectic Browsing for the Queen

By LUCINDA FRANKS Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, trailed by a retinue or regal pin-stripe-suited attendants, strolled through a crowd of clamoring spectators yesterday at Bloomingdale's department store, the place where the trendy common folk of New York are clothed, shoed and coiffured.

And the common folk—who included some of Blooming-dale's staff and managers— let out great "ahs" and strained at the ropes holding them back when the Queen appeared; they clapped, waved, and even got into a few shoving matches just to get a little bit nearer to the orgationate grander the great-great-great grandaugh-ter of George III.

The Queen, io a sleeveless dress of lime-green dotted swiss and a matching turban hat, seemed lukewarm to the whole affair, smillog hroadly just a few times but mostly keeping a set face as she moved from floor to floor, viewing exhibitions of antique Wedgwood, winter sports-wear reminiscent of British bunting and walking gear and reproductions of English antique furniture that bad been shrunk or enlarged (a bigger version of the Windsor chair was created for "the more hefty, comfort-loving American") to cater to Amerlcan tastes.

Comments Drowned

"Gracious," sain the Queen, as she watched a model twiri in a mid-calf tweed dirndl skirt by Calvio Klein. "Do you really wear skirts that loog here?"

The photographers, staff people and VIP's who pushed and. crowded behind the figure drowned out royal further conversatioo. "I couldn't hear what she was saying to me," said Calvin Klein, one of three de-signers who displayed his sportswear to the Queen. But the excitement her visit has generated here is incredihle. I was more nervous and excited thao wheo I went to the White House."

slightly bewildered—and perhaps that was because what she was doing was not exactly part of her everyday routine. Io Britain, the Queen seldom goes shopping-the merchandise comes to her. "That's why we thought-and the Queen agreed---that it would be a very American experience for her to go amidst all the crowds and just pretend she might be shoppiog," said a Bloomingdale's spokesman.

Even the British officials in her party seemed slightly disconcerted at the general chaos whirling about their charges. One of them elbowed a reporter out of earshot of Prince Philip, who was talking to Carl Levice, the store's vice president for home furnishings, who led the royal couple through an exhibition of model rooms. "Prince Philip does not like his conversations overthe official emphaheard," But the Queen seemed sized

But the New Yorkers who squeeze and battle their way through the Lexington Avenue store on any given day did not abandon their spontaneity for the sake of British decorum. Several hours before her arrival, one hour behind schedule, they crammed and shoved into tha balconies overlooking the first floor, and the store managers fluttered about saying, "The Queen is coming, the Queen is coming." Model Rooms

She began her tour in the model rooms, where the American reporductions of English antiques ranged from a smaller version of the long gateleg table to a copy of a hall porter's chair-a tall-backed chair where porters in such English castles as the Royal Windsor Castle could keep out of the draft. The American version was covered in pale blue paisley cotton that looked like material for bedsheets.

The Queen remarked about a butler's tray table and said she thought it was "remarkable" that a couch that she thought was covered in batik was actually cotton chintz.

When she eotered an Oriental room, she stared at the Chippendale style chairs for a moment. "What wide chairs!" she exclaimed. "The English are very disciplined," said Mr. Levine, later. "They sit in small tiny spaces. We like to spread out." Next, Queen Elizabeth went down a floor to see a Wedgwood exhibition-Josiah Wedgwood who founded the pottery factory in Staffordshire, England, was a supporter of the American Revolution and even imported Colonial clay to make his fine English pottery. The dis-play included Queensware jugs made in 1774 to commemorate volunteers from Wexford Ireland who went over to the Colonies to fight for George III. There was a black basalt bust of George Washington, five-color Wedg-wood trophy plates of jasper bearing a cameo of the Queen, and antiqoe pieces that included caneware tea caddies, game pie dishes, a pierced cheese mold, a gravy separator and other odd relics from the kitchens and dining rooms of past centuries. 'Symbolizes 'Peace'

Queen Elizabeth was presented with a Siour Indian peace pipe in memory of her visit to the store, because, said Lawrence Lachman, its

HONG KONG, July 9-This British colony is in the midst of its biggest event since the riots that broke out here during the Cultural Revolution in the late 1968's, or possibly, in the view of some, since the Japanese attacked Hoog Kong in 1941. It's the Miss Uni-

Ordinarily, because Hong Kong exists at the sufferance of China, it tries to produce as little news as possible and devotes itself with single-minded pur-pose to the satisfying pursuit of money. And as the Miss Universe contestants have found out, with the Hong Kong dollar currently one of the world's four or five strongest currencies, there is lots of money here.

"I'd just like to go home now, but these people think they own you because they put up the money, so you have to go the parties and dance with their sons," said Miss Samoa, Taliilani Ellen Letuli, a deeply-bronzed nightclub dancer with waist-length hair who now lives in Hawail.

Samoa itself had no preliminary contest this year, hut some friends of Miss Letuli who held the local Miss Uoiverse franchise were warned they would lose it unless they produced a contestant. So she was chosen by telephone as a last-minute entry. She and Miss Philippines, Lizabeth de Padua, both said they bad been asked hy Mr. Fok's sons and several other wealthy young Honk Kong bache-lors to stay on with them after the contest. But Miss de Padua, a summa cum laude graduate of the University

Youthful Creators Of Dance Get Day

One chance to see what the younger generation of choreographers is up to will be afforded visitors this weekthe Performing Arts at the City University Graduate Center Mail on 42d Street between Fifth and Sixth Avenue, where nine artists will participata in the 18thannual New Choreographers Concert.

"Young choreographers come to New York, aach year, with the dream of cre-ating and showing their own work in the dance capital of the country. But there is no "chorus line" for fledgling choreographers. They are oo their own, faced with a atag-gering set of new problems once they have reached their goal. Many come straight from college, where their concerts were presented in wellappointed university theaters with the most up-to-date technical equipment.

Here, beside the expenses of living and of the classes dancers must take to keep limber and techoically adept, there is the necessary but often prohibitive expeose of renting work and perform-ance spaces. Dancers will work for nothing, but space is a prerequisite for dance.

There are the relatively established church, studio or small theater spaces scatter-ed throughout New York but many are beyond the means of such choreographers as the nine on the Clark Center program. And there is the hurgeoning phenomeoon of the laft concert, performed in the choreographer's own home or in a loft rented from friends for a nominal fee. The most casual visitor to the regions south of Houston Street cannot fail to notice the care-fully lettered little signs fluttering in entrancewsys. A creaking elevator deposits the adventurous dancegoer in a cleared space where an hour of unpredictable dance unfolds for an audience scattered around the floor.

"There's a whole new sense of informality in all the arts," choreographer Fred Mathews said. "There's more rapport between performer and audience in those spaces, although I prefer a proscentum."

"I think it allows many more choreographers to show their works, and they're cut-iog down that break between the theater and real people, Cathryo Williams, another of Clark Center's new choreographers, added. "It's saying: Look, 1 am a real person and I have this to say. I'm saying it io my loft. Come look at me.' On that level,

, I think it's a very positive thiog. At the same time, I sbowcases for new choreographers, but the Clark Cente eries, now in its 18th year, ia the oldest. The center is a small but lively performance center and school that has nurtured fledgling choreog-raphers for many years. Al-vin Ailey was one of those choreographers, and many alumpi of the new choreogalumni of the new choreog-raphers series have gone oo to become familiar faces in the modern dance world. For its participants, the series is a chanca for maximum ex-posure with minimal expense.

This year's choreographers were chosen by a panel of 14 judges that included Louise Roberts, the director of Clark Center, and choreographers Talley Beatty and Anna Sokolow. The degree of experi-ance varies. Some have had years of professional dancing, as in tha case of Mr. Math-ews, a former José Limóo dancer, aod Senta Driver, formerly a dancer with Paul Taylor, hoth of whom left their companies to devote themselves to their own chor-eography. Then there is the exuberant freshness of Roo Paul, who became involved in Paul, who necame myolved in dance two years ago while an undergraduate at Jersey City State College. "I started to choreograph the day 1 started to dance," Mr. Paul said. "We looked for choreo-graphic ideas." Miss Roberts said And they appear to have

The works range from Mr. Mathews's "Aubade," a romantic duet set to music by Krzystof Pender-ecki, to Susao Dibble's "Sextet Foranoa," a group dance about gorillas performed. to an Aaron Copland score. Dev-on Long has contributed a pure dance duet in the limpid style of Erich Hawkins, set to a Schubert sonata. There are two solos that explore per-aonality: Mr. Paul's "Stria-tions," with a Bartók score, and Miss Williams's "Analgam," which is performed to recorded improvisation for

with the life of Clars Schu-mann, a child piano prodigy who weot on to devote her life to promoting ber hus-band's music. It will be danced to part of a piano ouiotet hy Robert Schumann. Carole Kariamu Welsh returns, in "Coretta," to the afternoon of Martin Luther King's funeral and, to songs by Nina Simone and excerpts from Dr. King's speeches, she explores the relationship be-tween Mrs. King and three of her women friends. Miss Driver's contribution is a duet set to "deranged country music" by Jim Bur-ton. "They wanted a new plece, right now, never be-fore done in New York, so I "Piece d'Occasion." made which is people lifting each other, mostly the worman lift-

Not all the choreographers feel careers can only be made in New York. Miss Welsh, who will travel from Buffalo to appear in "Coretta," feels it is possible to develop the craft in a purer way out-side the city. Like Miss Welsh, Mr. Jones visits New York frequently to take classes and meet with colleagues. But he is most involved in creating dance io Binghamton, where he lives. "New Yorkers al-

"In an endeavor that this should not result in the International Olympic Committee having no alternative but to cancel the Games of the 21st olympiad, the tripartite commission is supporting immediate further talks with Canadian authorities and also with representatives of the Republic of China National Olympic Committee."

The statement declared that the commission "unani-mously condemned" the Canadian attitude, which it said was a breach of "the agreement given formerly to the LO.C. when the Canadian Government supported Montreal's application to hold the Olympic Games."

Earlier, Lord Killanin had said that Montreal would not have been awarded the Games had the Government been unwilling to admit un-conditionally all competitors sanctioned by the committee. It comes as no surprise to the Chicago White Sox that the Yankees will have the most players on the American League All-Star team next Tuesday in Philadelphia. The teams met at Yankee Stadium last night for the eighth time this season, and the result was the same as the first seven times: the Yankees won. This time the score was 2-1, and the winning pitcher wasn't even one of the six Yankees who are

High above midtown, the offices of the American Basketball Association have emerged as a shrine for collectors. "That big red white and hlue lucite basketball," a man was saying, "can I have that when you close the offices?"

Dozens of visitors have requested that memento. Others have asked for a variety of A.B.A. memorabilia, much of which must be retained. But the best collector's item of all. Dave DeBusschere, will he available when the merger with the Netional Basketball Association is completed. "I don't know what I'm going to do yet bat my wife, Gerri, told me, 'It's time to start thinking about yourself,'" the Sports of or 6-foot-7-inch commissioner was saying at The Times his desk. But the details of the merger will take another couple of months to finalize." Next Thursday each of the four A.B.A. teams must post $1 million of their $3.2 million initiation fee, Another $2 million is due on Sept. 15, with the final $200,000 due next year. Snags have developed, but that's normal in sport mergers.

The pro foothall armistice took three years to complete. But after months of talking economics, 35-year-old Dave DeBusschere was talking basketball again. Mostly he was talking about Julius Erving of the New York Nets.

"He might be even better in the N.B.A. than he was in the A.B.A.," the commissioner was saying. "He's got something to prove in every new city he plays in."

Celtics-Nets TV Opener?

Of all the N.B.A. cities, Boston might be where Dr. J most wants to dazzle the doubters. Not only do the Celtics reign as N.B.A. champions again hut their president and general manager, Red Auerbach, was among the N.B.A.'s most adamant A.B.A. haters.

"The first TV game next season," Dave DeBusschere "should be the Nets and the Cettics-tha two champions from last season. That's what the fans want to see." As a former Knick forward who covered Dr. J in exhibition games and as the former Nets' general manager. Dave DeBusschere appreciates him as no other commis-sioner can

The way Julius controls himself and the ball in the air defies gravity," he said. "David Thompson can hang in the sir like that hat not with the ball. Julius does it while he's doing something with the ball. But on the floor, Julius is incredible too. He does more than Rick Barry does. He plays defense better, he rebounds better. 1 remember when Rick first came up, he was a lot quicker and a start of the start than Julius is even now. He was harder to stay with, he ran a lot better. He's still a hetter outside shooter hut he's not as quick as Julius is now. But the thing that many people don't realize about Julius is that he's a fine gentleman, he'a not all wrapped up in himself. He worries about his teammates, he worries about other people."

attack and audacity, cooly

Of the four A.B.A. teams, Dave DeBusschere rates the Denver Nuggets as having the best chance of winning the N.B.A. title soon, possibly next season.

"They've got better talent than Phoenix and the Suns got to the final," he said. "They've got Devid Thompson, Ralph Simpson, Dan Issel, Bobby Jones, and if Marvin Webster develops they'll really be tough. The Nets' main weakness is the lack of a bone fide big man, hut Julius Erving makes them special. San Antonio could be the surprise team. They've got some players who'll be stars in the N.B.A.-George Gervin, Larry Kepon and James Silas. So does Indiana with Billy Knight."

The 3-Point Shot

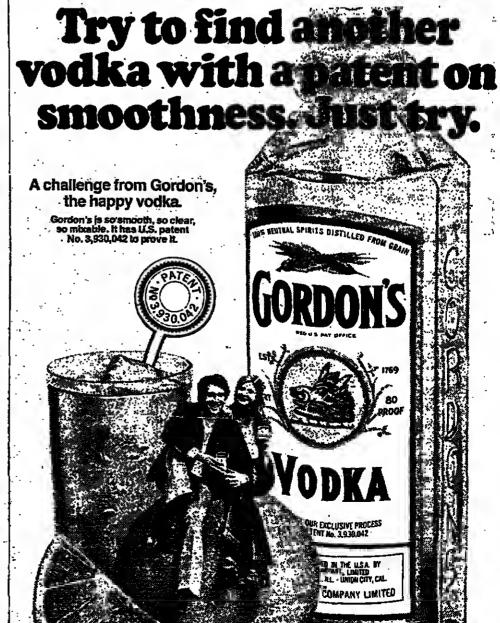

Many A.B.A. afficionados would like to see the N.B.A. adopt a red, white and hlue ball, hut Dave DeBusschere doesn't.

"I don't care for the ball that much," he said. "Id like to see the N.B.A. use our 3-point shot from outside the 25-foot perimeter. I'm for anything that helps a team that's behind. I'd like to see them modify our rule where a player can't foul-out. On his seventh foul, the other team shoots a technical foul and gets the ball. I think that's too much of a penalty. But keeping a player in the gama is e good idea. If fouls put Dr. J and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar on the bench, you're cheating the fan."

As he talked, Dave DeBusschere sipped coffee hut he didn't smoke. He usually smokes only two or three cigarettes a day hut during the merger meetings in Hyannis, Mass., last month, he was smoking nearly two packs a day.

"I always felt our six surviving clubs could have gone into the N.B.A., been competitive and alleviated a lot of prohlems," he was saying now. "But the N.B.A. was adamant about taking four. Even then there was a time when some of our owners, wanted to call it off. I had to give them a pep talk. I told them it was like the playoffs, they bad made it to the semis and now they had to keep going to the finals, that they couldn't stop now."

And they didn't, thanks to Dave DeBusschere, who kept them together. That's why he's the A.B.A.'s best collector's item of all.

This course of up and down fairwaya, elevated greens and rough, heavy with clover, is tailormade for victory by someone such as Mrs. Carner. And there are only a haif dozen on the women's golf circuit who are as strong or hit as far as she. Although this Rolling Green course is the shortest Wom-en's Open course in the last 25 years, Mrs. Carner said, 25 years, Mrs. Carner Said, "It sure isn't playing short." Judy Rankin, who is play-ing in her 16th Women's Open, said Rolling Green played longer than any other Open course had she played

Mrs. Carner, winner of five national amateur titles before turning pro six years ago, won the Wonea's Open at another Pennsylvania course —Kahkwa in Erie.

When she slumped into a chair after taking the lead today, Mrs. Carner said, "I am totally exhausted and my back aches. My back aches because I wound up on every shot out there. You don't punch anything the way wa usually do. You hit every-thing." Although she opened the round with a bogey 3, Mrs. Carner began her climb to first place with two straight birdies at the third and fourth holes. But it was her birdie-5 at the sixth that was a thing of beauty.

Pushing a drive way off course into the woods on the right, she hit her second shot while standing on a cart path. This 5-wood shot sent the Amateur-Oemer Handers Under Seddie, Divi-son A-Gradd Central Internetabel's Twen-tieth Century Limited, Amateur-Oemer Hanters Under Seddle, Oiri-sian B-Gell M. For a while it looked as for a wine it loosen as if Ballesteros himself would be one of the weather vic-tims. He started the round at six under par and then at each under par and then dropped to two under as a result of four bogers on the first seven holes. He took three puts on the first, was bunkered on the second, he was short on the second, he was short on the sixth and he missed the seventh green to the left.

He made up three of those four lost shots with a birdie 3 on the 10th, where he sank an 18-foot put; and an eagle 3 on the 526-yard 17th, where he hit a 5-iron to nine feet and sank the putt.

More significant than the birdie and eagle were the saved pars. Balesteros occa-sionally got into trouble, but. he got the breaks with good lies and with what Miller called "super scrambling . .

he was phenomenal." Ballesteros is gradually getting the hang of British gok vocabulary. On the first. day he reported his distances in meters and size them in in meters and since then in deference to local custom, he has changed the measurements to yards. He hasn't learned feet, though he still calculates his putts in yards.

Ballesteros's close confi-dant during this tournament is his brother Manuel, who is eight years older and also a capable touring profession-al. When Severiano was asked what an Open victory would mean financially, Manuel quickly responded for him: "He must forget that now. Afterward we think about it."

Miller played a patchy round with five bogeys and four birdies. He drove poorly. but as always his iron play was beautiful to behold in the pure, full outline of swing : fying spots over the par-71, 6,664-yard East Course at and the precision of stroke. Randolph has missed the last five games with a sore right knee, and it is conceivable that he will not be able to play Tuesday. The Yankees would rather have the rookie second baseman rest the knee so he will be ready to play when it counts.

The White Sox didn't mind Randolph's absence last night, he's hitting .429 against them this season. But the Yankees didn't need his hot bat.

Before the first mning was over, it seemed as if Ellis might need something, Ralph Gart, the second batter, hit a home run, and the, next three batters stached base. However, Jorge Orta, who singled after the bomer, was out trying to steal second. Thta made a walk t oPat Kelly and Jim Spencer's single somewhat less dangerous. Ellis ended the inning by re-tiring Kevin Bell on a

The Yankees quickly tied the game on Roy White's ooe-out double and Munson's single. It was at that point that Paul Richards, the Chicago manager, made a sneaky move. He bad started Francisco Barrios, a right-handed pitcher, and the Yankees filled their line-up with six left-banded hitters and and two switch-hitters. Three of those left-handers play on a platoon basis, meaning they don't play against left-handed nitchers. So, after three batters, Richards removed Barrios and brought in Terry Forster, a eft-hander. Billy Martin, the Yankee manager, had the choice of substituting his right-handers for his lefthanders or leaving his lefties in to bat against Forster. He chose the latter strat-egy and wound up beating egy and womin up beaung Richards, anyway. Forster was effective but not effective enough to keep the Yaokees from scoring a run in the sixth. White and Munson singled, Chambliss forced Munson at second and

May lined a single to right, bringing in White. In the top half of the in-ning, Chicago had runners at first and third with two out and Jack Brohamer at bat. Bucky Dent, the runner at first, broke for secood, presumebly hoping to draw a throw so that Bell might be able to scote from third. But instead of throwing to sec-ond, Munson fired to third dream? These are some of the questions that Mr. Kaplan sets out to answer and analyze.

He probes such complex and often confusing matters as zoning, and he delves into the corruption that zoning has tra-ditionally spawned in suburban areas. Development has meant dollars, and so there has been in suburbia a symbiotic relationship between politicians and real estate developers. That is why, for instance, the story of Nassau and Suffolk Counties in recent years has been replete with land scandals and kickbacks involving influ-ential officeholders. Mr. Kaplan points out, with deep insight, that the victim of development has often been the taxpayer, development has onen been the hapayer, because growth, particularly haphazard, unplanned growth, places bage burdens on a locality in terms of additional public services and utilities. He points out, too, that suburban politicians have not listened in the planners because it has not have to the planners because it has not been profitable to do so.

Problems Are Imported

It is only now, helatedly, as large open areas have been ravaged by bulldozers and the problems of cities have been imported into suburbia, that master plans for shap-ing growth are finally being designed. But it may be too late for Long Island; Nassan has already become a congested collection of bousing developments and most of Suf-folk is already owned by realtors, even though it is still the state's largest agricultural county with its potato and cauliflower crops.

One complaint about Mr. Kaplan's book is that it does not sufficiently get into the matter of preservation of open space. For example, Suffolk has designed a pioneering farmland preservation program under which the county would have purchased development rights to agricultural acreage in an effort to stem suburbanization of its existing 60,000 acres of prime farmland. space was what brought urban migrants

Deadly Strike

How many lives' must he andangered before the representatives of hospital workers and management sit down together to talk rationally and realistically about their cammon problem-restructuring health services in this city so that hospitals can provide adequate care for patients and fair pay for employees at prices the public can afford to support?

The prolongation and threataned expansion today of the hospital strike poses an intolerable risk to human life hy those who are charged with preserving life. It represents an unconscionabla attempt by both parties, who have become accustomed to passing on their increased costs to the public, to hludgeon the state into providing still more money, with the sick and suffering as their innocent hostages.

But the state has no more money, nor does the public of this near-bankrupt city, to pour into a hloated, wasteful and uncoordinated hospital system.

A fact-finding body has recommended that the hospital workers should receive a modest cost-of-living increase. But as is the case with other public employees in this city-and even the voluntary hospitals today exist largely on public funds-the money for any additional benefits for hospital workers can only come from internally generated savings. Representatives of bospital labor and management have to face that reality and begin to discuss how such savings can be achieved.

Meanwhile, this cruel and inhuman strike should be called off forthwith.

No Hiding Place

Enactment of a personal income tax in New Jersey eliminates one of the last holdouts in the natioo against this broad-based, productive and generally equitable means of raising funds for the processes and operations of government,

New Jersey's still modest but nonetheless significant step toward tax reform reflects no special credit on Trenton's lawmakers nor on Governor Byrne, who said he saw no need for an income tax when he campaigned for office three years ago.

The Legislature acted only after it had been subjected to extreme pressure from the State Supreme Court to produce a new source of financial support for the public schools. And even after the court took the drastic step of closing the schools, there appears to have been little serious public pressure for the necessary tax reform. It is a sorry day for democracy when court intervention is required to compel citizens and their representatives to fulfill what is clearly their moral as well as legal responsibility to provide "thorough and efficient" education for every student.

The bahit of taking into account the impact of national policles an other countries is growing and should add stability to the entire world economy. But dynamic stability requires that nations in a position to advance more confidently (especially the United States and West Germany) take the lead-in the interests of the entire community as well as of their own unemployed workers.

Sluggish Ethics

Thanks to that very worthwhile "people's lobby." Common Cause, the ethics committee of the House of Representatives has for the first time in its nine-year history formally investigated a member of the House.

For nearly that entire period it must have been aware of grave conflict-of-interest charges against Representative Rohert L. F. Sikes of Florida in the press and an the air. The committee could surely have checked on accusations that it now helatedly acknowledges to be true: that Mr. Sikes, chairman of a powerful Military Appropriations subcommittee, voted to award a large defense contract to a company in which he owned stock; that he sponsored legislation removing restrictions on the development of land on which be sbared a long-term lease, with consequent handsome profits to himself; and that he bad an interest in a bank for which he helped to obtain the unprecedented privilege of locating on a Naval base.

It was only when Common Cause petitioned for an investigation that actinn was initiated. While no Congressman demanded such a probe, as any one of them could have, 44 members agreed to transmit the complaint to the ethics committee, formally known as the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct. Grudgingly and in executive session, it agreed to take an informal look-no subpoenas, no oaths, no counsel, no travel. Only under pressure and protest did it then move on to its first formal investigation of a Representative since it was established nearly a decade ago.

While the committee's report bas yet to be formally released, it is known to have reached a finding of "misconduct." It will ask that Mr. Sikes be "reprimanded." the mildest disciplinary action it can recommend.

If the House accepts the finding, it can be more real-

Time to 'Recycle' Abandoned Schools

To the Editor:

On June 19 and 20. The Times published two news articles about the growing prohlem of school closings and the unused buildings which result. Thousands of school boildings throughout the country have been abandoned dne to decreasing enrollment, population shifts, consolidation and other reasons unrelated to the buildings' structural condition. In Pennsylvania, 144 schools were closed between September 1974 and September 1975; 120 are to close this academic year. in New York State, over 200 schools were closed during the last academic year.

Demographic data point to an increase in this trend. A recent study in Providence, R.L. predicted that, because of declining enrollment, within ten years Providence would have twice as many schools as it will need. Thus, many school administrators are faced with the problem of closing relatively modern schools which have yet to be paid for.

Most abandoned schools are centrally located and could be converted into valuable community resources instead of empty targets for vandalism and disrepair. But financially strapped localities are finding that funds to convert the buildings to other public uses or suitable private uses are nearly impossible to obtain. Yet experience shows it can be done:

eIn Ithaca, N. Y., a school building was recycled into a shopping center, housing for the elderly and private offices.

•In Daytoo, Ohio, a 2,200-student high school was converted to a center for manpower training, adult basic education and community recreation. Other cities bave converted schools into community bealth centers or plants for light industry, and a school

Gun Ads: The Young Targets

To the Editor: My eight-year-old son recently came bome from school saying he had been invited to joio the Cub Scouts. I gave him the money and he started to receive Boy's Life magazine. It is full of ads for firearms and air rifles. On page 12 it's "ammo you can count (Federal brand hi-power caron" tridges). On page 35 it's "The gun" and "The son of the gun," that is, Winchester 30-30 rifles and 22 rifles. Bullets are appealiogly pictured to capture the imagination of the small boy who is already feasting his eyes oo the firearms.

Oo page 45 there's the mushroomtype hullet by Winchester (a murderous killer) and other bullets, including the Western 22 Rim Fire Cartridge and the Super-X Magnum. The inside froot cover is a full-page ad for air rifles, which says boys can learn "what a great frieod a gun can be." Page 62 tells the young boy that "One good Smith & Wesson, deserves another." It's an ad for CO2 rifles, and the boy is urged to say, "Dad, I'd like a Smith & Wesson." Another air rifle is advertised on page 64. Bows and arrows are offered on page 10. Page 52 offers the young boy an opportunity to spend $21.85 for a World War II helmet, apparently a real Nazi type, as well as "Uniforms, Bayonets, in Long Island City, Queens, was even converted into a community art center, as your June 20 news article illustrated.

Earlier this year I introduced two companion measures in the House to help communities convert their anused school buildings to new public and private uses. The first, the Surplus School Conservation Act (H.R. 12627), makes housing and urban development grants available to localities to cover 80 percent of the cost of converting the school buildings into other appropriate public uses. The second measure, the Surplus School Conversion Act (E.R. 12628), provides a tax incentive for private industry to purchase empty school buildings and develop them as commercial properties.

It is time to recognize that our resources are limited and that we cannot afford to waste a single element-even buildings. In short, it is time to "recycle" our abandoned H. JOHN HENZ 3D schools. Member of Congress, 18th Dist., Pa. Washington, July 2, 1976 etc." Another company offers a spy pen radio. The inside rear cover tells the young boy he can have a "Widowmaker Drag Car" if only he will sell boxes of greeting cards. My son has already responded to another ad, which tells him how to turn Christmas into a moneymaking occasioo by selling cards. There are lots of ads for other offensive things, including a knife (page 54) described as a "powerful oruse." (All in the July, 1976, Biceotennial month issue.)

This entire magazine teaches hoys to be exactly the sort of persons we doo't need in a crowded world. We oon't need a lot of killing and swashhuckling attitudes in a world which needs huilders rather than destroyers. We need civilized persons who want to deal with our real civilian problems. Similar legal mandales inevitably will catch up with the few remaining tax havens-notably Concecticut, where last year's budget was "halanced" only through resort to the kinds of fiscal legerdemaio that helped drive New York City to the edge of bankruptcy. It is time that those who attempt to escape the common problems of an urban society recognize that there can be oo hiding place from the shared respoosibilities and hurdens of citizenship.

Growing Together

The major industrial democracies have managed to achieve a relatively good record of international economic cooperation in recent years.

During the steep 1974-75 slump, the principal capitalist countries, with a few exceptions, did not resort to commercial protectionism. They rightly recognized tha danger of setting off a chain reaction that would hurt themselves as well as the entire world economy. At last month's conference in Puerto Rico, the industrial countries reaffirmed their aim of completing the Tokyo round of trade negotiations to reduce tariff and nontariff barriers by tha end of 1977.

Oo East-West trade, a call for development of economic relations "on a sound financial and reciprocal commercial basis" reflected concern that the Communists have been trying to drive unfair bargains against Western companies, hanks and national governmaots, playing one off against another. Some Westero countries are seeking to push their export sales to the Communists hy extendiog overly generous loans and credit terms, which can be unfair and economically disruptive to competitors.

On North-South economic relations, the leading industrial countries have not succeeded in resolving their differences on how to deal with demands of the poor oations for price-fixing agreements covering a long list of raw materials. However, tha recent summit conference wisely fleaned in the direction of commodity agreements on a case-by-case basis.

Provision of necessary financial help to the floundering Italian economy may have been the most important singla accomplishment of the Puerto Rican conference as a preventive against a sudden crisis. The plan discussed-but not completed-would make large additional resources available to Italy through tha International Monetary Fund; the British could be similarly helped should they need further aid when their present $5.3 billioo standby credit runs out at the end of this year.

Such loans, however, would carry with them particularly restrictive conditions affecting the fiscal and monetary policies of the horrowing nations. Leaders of the strongest capitalist countries clearly feal that the threat of super-tough borrowing terms for the hard-pressed Italian or British Government will stiffen their resistance to domestic pressure for excessively stimulative economic policies.

But the double job of checking inflation and reducing istic as to the penalty. At the very least, Representative Sikes should be relieved of his chairmanship over a subcommittee that oversees the spending of billions of dollars in defense contracts. But far more important than the fate of this member of Congress is the need for a serious effort to curtail practices which the House has found it so hard to iovestigate, but which it has good reason to believe are oot limited to this noe case alone.

A good way to begin would be to pass at long last a full financial disclosure act to compel all members of Congress to reveal, annually, their holdings and financial interests. Bills to achieve that purpose have heen passed by the Senate three times in the past four years, each time only in avaporate in the House. In fact a disclosure hill has even now been locked up in the House Judiciary Committee for a year and a half without baving enjoyed a single day of hearings.

What are. Chairman Rodino and his committee colleagues waiting for? More citizens' petitions to force more investigation, with still more unfavorable publicity for a hranch of Government already sorely in oeed of the public's confidence?

New York Style

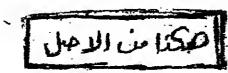

The Old Custom House at Battery Park opened for the Bicentennial with a trumpet flourish and a cleaning of statuary. The holiday crowds flanked Daniel Chester French's Four Continents and climbed the noble entrance stair to watch Op Sail; the evening fireworks gilded tha freshly washed white marhle facade.

Inside, other richly colored marbles and mosaics glowed in halls of triumphal scale, also freshly cleaned; and the Rotunda soared to Reginald Marsh's newly-lit murals of a ship entering New York harbor-immortal W.P.A. vignettes of Moran tugs and a starlet shipboard interviaw. (Legend says it's Greta Garbo.)

But this was more than a gala exercise in nostalgia. The refurbishing of Cass Gilbert's regally splendid 1907 Beaux Arts structure (abandoned when the Customs Service moved to the World Trade Center) was a joint effort. of tha Federal General Services Administration, the New York Landmarks Conservancy and the Custom House Institute-all trying to find a way to keep the building alive. The reopening to the public is temporary-merely an advertisement, for the duration of the summer, of tha quality of the landmark and the need for new users of its empty upper floors.

Now that the tall ships and the visitors are gone, the Custom House and Lower Manhattan are still an urban spectacular, though the exciting upward sweep of the city as it used to be seen from the barbor is now largaly lost to those grossly brutal new skyscrapers along the East River and their ticky-tacky checkerboard neighbors inland. Still, they do not entirely obscure the romantic spires and towers of 50 years ago; there are small, shadowed streets and a few low brick buildings to mark another century or two.

New York, surprisingly, is no longer young-with its sharp glass blocks rising above sculptured classical grandeur from shabhy pot-holed streets-but it manages to sustain its style.

On Predicting Birth Defects To the Editor:

In a recent letter, Dr. Micheline M. Mathews-Roth uses an argument of the "slippery slope" variety against efforts to predict (and possibly prevent) births of babies with grave defects.

Giving prospective parents the ability and the right to abort such births does not precipitate us down the slope to a vicious program of "race improvement," such as Hitler's, any more than a Social Security tax leads inevitably to Communism, or fluoridation of water supplies to totalitarianism. Insistence on absolute principles discourages reasoned debate on particular issues; insistence on the absolute sanctity of life cao in some instances be cruel.

true not only with slow movements hut with virtually any kind of tempo or intensity of sound.

Many listeners are unaware of this extra noise because of the deep concentration in which they are submerged, but once they become conscious of it, some sort of peculiar sensitization takes place, and this brings a bitter note of dissatisfaction with the performance because it is known that early or late and more than once tha unwelcome soloist is spt to make its appearance.

It would he most rewarding to the audiences attending the hall if this noise could be suppressed by providing the building with an adequate acoustic insulation. The technology is undountedly available (if we can go to the moon, we can make Carnegie Hall noise-proof, no quastion about it). The financial means to this eod should be sought or allocated.

Ah, well. Half a vote is better than none.

By Dorothy J. Samuels

Two weeks ago, Fate, along with the higher mathematics of a preconvention credentiala challenge, mandated my selection, along with fifteen others (mostly women under 30) to share a convention vote with a willing member of the New York State at-large delegation to the Democratic National Convention. Thus, suddenly and unexpectedly I became a political and physical anomaly-a half delegate.

Naturally this event is not destined to have any perceptible impact whatever on the outcome of the Democratic convention My appointment came too-late for the barrage of phone calls from lobbying candidates. In fact, it was all locked up for Jimmy Carter, the party platform was written and the convention rules were agreed upon even before my arrival on the scene with half a vote.

Yet, despite the promise of a well-orchestrated predictable, prompt and, in all likelihood, somewhat boring Democratic gathering this .coming week at the Garden, there is still a certain mystique attached to being a delegate to this convention.

I am told that those watching the convention on television will know more about what is happening on the convection floor and have a better view of it-than the delegates. In addition, I have been warned that the convention crowd may well test the capacity of the arena's air-conditioning system well past its questionable limits.

Considerations of comfort aside, however, I note that those who recite at leogth the downside risks of life at the Democratic convention are still busy scrounging at this late bour for any possible way onto the coovention floor:

For those of us who reflect upon the protest movement of the last decade with no small degree of oostalgia, the opcoming conventioo represents a final break with the past. This will be the first Democratic cominating convention since the Vietnam war ended, and the first since the . downfall of Richard Nixoo. This year it is the Republicans who are still fighting. Jimmy Carter wasn't my first, second or third choice for the commation this year. But come oext week my guesa is that the man from Plains, Ga., will be getting my half vote with very little reservation.

"I know," said Handman. "I just can't seem to get my heart brim full of the love of Jimmy Carter that a real Democrat ought to feel."

He was on his way to one of the dozens of Libéral Love Clinics which the Democratic National Committee has set up in midtown to help liberals conquer their unenthusiasm for Carter.

"They've shown us giant slides of Carter's teeth and told us to think of him as a Kennedy," said Handman, "It , does nothing for my love juices since I always think of Kennedys as middleof-the-road cold warriors."

"Did you tell them that?"

"I did," said Handman, "and they showed me giant slides of the wbole face, teeth and all, and told me to think of him as Mrs. Roosevelt."

"That should have helped. Eleanor was the quintessence of liberalism."

"It just reminds me how much I'd tather have Mrs. Roosevelt heading the ticket than Carter," said Handman. "She's dead, Handman," All's well, etc., etc. Or, we told you so.

City, so they said. The government of New York City couldn't produce-it was weighted down in its own problems and didn't have the capacity to deliver, so they said. The fact is, Mayor Beame and his staff have been responsive in all respects. This city's government has done everything it committed itself to do, and more. Governor Carey and his staff, whenever called upon, have fully and totally responded. The same is true for Comptroller Harrison J. Goldin and his office.

Madison Square Garden was not built for a national conventioo and just wouldn't work, so they said. Well, the functional and efficient.

New York's labor unions would squabble and be counterproductive--they would hold the Democrats bostage: They'd make unreasonable demands, so they said. Yet organized labor has indeed responded, and cooperated fully and constructively to help. Sure there have been jurisdictional - j problems, but that is everywhere. Strikers, marchers, protesters, rabblerousers and debaters would he disruptive and prevent an orderly convention, so they said. Well, of course, some of that is just plain American freedom in action.

The New York police have been efficient, effective, most aensitive and truly understanding, as they have worked with us to plan for an orderly convention as well as the handling of those who might he bent on mischief. Above all, so they said, the people of New York had neither the spirit nor the heart, nor the determination oor the will to help make their city and our convention work. The people of New York really doo't give a damn any more-they are beaten and discouraged and have given up, so they said.

· Yet, this great citizenry has responded to the extent that we have called upon it, with the determination and vigor befitting its finest traditions. The people have responded with cooperation, with a constant belping hand, in both public and private ways.

The bost committee would be more symbol than substance, more glitter than work, so they said. The committee has performed seriously and substantively, and bas been extremely effective in assisting on a piethora of problems. It has planned well to show our many visitors New York's best side, its real character and substance

-aot the stories of which headlines are made.

And so it is we now enter the homestretch. During the next few days a broad cross-section of America is coming to see New York and to participate in America's greatest exercise in democracy.

A national conventioo of the Democratic Party represents some of the very best elements of American democracy in action and also some of its more difficult problems associated with open decision-making

Five thousand delegates and alternates from all across this nation, joined by tens of thousands from the press, the diplomatic corps, official and un-official observers, will very soon become the personal guests of the people and the government of New York City. All of these guests will participate and report, not only on what the delegates do and what the convention deliberates upon and decides, and how we Democrats behave, but also on how this unique metropolis performs, what the people of New York City do to make us feel welcome, how they behave toward us and each other, and above all how they are reacting to their day-to-day and seemingly never-ending crises. I sincerely believe that the attitude of the nation toward New York City (and to the problems of the other cities of America exemplified in a very classic, and archetypical way by the

A look of mad desperation came over Handman's face. I knew he was going to say something dreadful. "You know what I think?" he asked.

"Don't say it, Handman. Just think love, and you'll be a new man." "I think he's a Republican," Handman blurted.

I covered my ears, but Handman, raved on. "He's Eisenhower all over again: Chewing-gum syntax, compromise on everything, three-time winner oo the cover of Time, prayer breakfasts in place of politics and a smile eight columns wide. It's Eisenhower come back to take over my party."

I bustled Handman into the doorway of a massage parlor to prevent his being overheard by passing Democrats. "This isn't the Democratic coovention," Handman went on. "It's the Republican National Conventioo of 1956 in disguise."

I slapped him to dispel the hysteria. It was no wonder the liberals were non grata at the Garden. They were getting like Republicans. They'd cast aside a sure winner just because they hated everything he stood for.

"Stop crying, Handman," I commanded. "and say, 'I love Jimmy Carter.'' "Why should I love Jimmy Carter?"

he protested. "You want your party to win, don't .you?" . .

"Of course not," he said. "I'm a liberal."

When one of the massage-parlor girls lingering in the doorway heard this, she doobled up with laughter. "What a joke!" she finally gasped. "A liberal!"

I walked away in disgust and bumped into another Democrat I knew. He greeted me with the usual, "I love Jimmy Carter," and before I could catch myself, I replied with a wave of the hand and an "I like Ike,"

Pentagon Permits a Glimpse Of Ultra-Secret'WarRoom'

By JOHN W. FINNEY Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, July 9-A few weeks ago the Secretary of Defense, the Deputy Secretary of Defense, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and sundry flag officers and civiliao officials assembled in a top-secret room at the Pentagon to super-vise the evacuation of 116 Americans in Beirut.

To some in the military, it did not seem serious eoough crisis to warrant such high-level supervision. But the evacuation gave the civilian officials, the generals and the admirals their first chance to try out their oew "war room" io the Pentagon.

After repeated requests and some reistance by the Joint Chiefs of Staff to an intrusioo into their inner sanctum, the Defensa Department today permitted the first public viewing of the war room, known colloquially around the Pentagon as the "N.M.C.C." for National Military Command Center.

A $15.4 Million Center

Situated io the second and third floors of the Peotagoo in the tightly guarded area of the joint staff, the center, which replaces a much smaller war room, was completed io February at a cost of $15.4 million.

Dr. Strangelove would feel at home in the setting of the orw, two-story emer-gency conference room, which is normally restricted to individuals holding only a top-secret clearance or higher.

On one wall are six different screens oo which, with the aid of computers, many things can be projected-from the weather in Washington to the position of a bomber ordered to strike an enemy position. On another wall, draped over for the press tour, is what tha Air Force brigadier gen-eral in charge described as the "alphanumeric display board." It gives the position and readiness of every missile poised to hit the Soviet bloc.

Flu Immunization Despite Problems WASHINGTON, July 9 (UPI) President Ford has decided to cootinue the mass swine mfluenza immonizatioo campaign this fall despite insurance difficulties and scientific questions, Government health offiials said today.

David F. Mathews, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, made the anoouncement after a meetiog with Mr. Ford.

"The Presideot's position was that we should go ahead with the plan; that it bas his support, and he would call oo interested parties, to act in the public ioterest," Mr. Mathews told reporters.

The overriding uncertainty with the program is tha insur-ance problem, department offi-cials said.

The companies manufacturing vaccioe for use in the public health effort canoot get insuracce to protect them against lawsuits that might result from tha immunizations. Insurers say that the risks involved in the swine fl program are "vir-tually unmeasurable."

Mr. Mathews said that be had personally offered to act as a mediator betweep the manufacturers and insurers and had scheduled a meeting for cext Tuesday to try to resolve the problem.

Congress has balked at providing a legislative solution, and Governmeot and corporate lawyers have faild at closed meetings in the last week to break the impasse.

Asked what the prospects were for a settlement, Mr. Ma-thews raplied, "I always begin any oegotiations hopefully."

Dr. Theodore Cooper, Assistant Secretary for Health, said that If the insuraoce problem could be solved quicky, the program might be delayed only a ew weeks.

President Ford said that Ronald Reagan was qualified to be President and be appealed to him to keep an open mind about running for Vice President on the Republican ticket. The virtual retraction at a White House news conference of the President's earlier harsh assessment of Mr. Reagan'a competence was believed likely to encourage Republican National Convention delegates and party leaders who are promoting a Ford-Reagan ticket. Style Marks British Sales Pitch on Yacht

By ANN CRITTENDEN

It was hardly an ordinary shipboard conversation. "How many boards are you on?" one guest asked another, as they strolled, gin and tonic in hand, on the top deck of the royal yacht Britannia.

"Too many," his companinn sighed, before they wera distracted by a simu-lated amphibious landing by the British frigate Eskimo, some two hours out of Bayonne, N.J. Battered tha British may be, hut they still have no peers when it comes to doing things with style. On Thursday, one of the world's most elegant sales pitches took place when some 100 top executives of British and American companies were invited for a day at sea on the yacht of Queen Elizabeth II, to be wined and dined and told, among other things, of the advantages of in-Britain today. Exports Up 15 Percent Between the naval displays and the mousseline de coquilles St. Jacques, the businessmen learned that British exports would be up 15 percent in the third quarter of 1976, that public spending, which soared from 44 to 60 percent of national income in the last 10 years, would be cut in the coming year, and that the rate of inflation should be around 11 percent hy the fourth quarter, still too high hut less than balf of last year's horrendous levels.

Heat and Cooling by Water

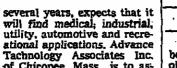

A Massachusetts specialist in heating and refrigeration has been granted a patent for an energy generating system that he expects to warm and air-conditioo a home when supplied with no fuel but water. Ronald L Papineau of Go-shen, who was awarded Pat-ent 3,967,589 this week, has also been presented with the Eagle Award of the Inventors' Club of America for the con-

Thomas F. H. Sullivan, chaitman of Unique Energy Systems Inc. of Amherst, Mass., to which the patent will he assigned, said bere this week that the system could heat and air-condition an American eight-room house when supplied with about a allon of water an hour. He estimated the cost at between $24 and $28 e year for the water, plus some ex-penses for replecement of vora parts.

The patent describes the invention as an energy sys-tem in which steam is gener-ated by tha comhustion. The equipment described in the batent includes an ozone senerator. Mr. Sullivan, who has cooperated on the project for Tachnology Associates Inc. of Chicopee, Mass., is to as-semble prototypes of the equipment. Alexander T. Marianaccio, president of the Inventors Club of America, which bas

Few investors appear to be aware of commission plans offered individuals by leading brokerage houses that permit them to buy and sell securities at substantial discounts. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fen-

Merrill Lynch, Fierce, Fen-ner & Smith Inc. has its Sharebuilder, Plan; Paine, Wehber, Jackson & Curtis inc. has its Econo-Trade, and Bache Halsey Stuart Inc. has its Termtrade. The three. plans are quite different, but. each leads to substantial discounts from normal commission rates when properly used.

Merrill Lynch's Sharebuild. or Plan is designed for the long-term investor who buys and sella stocks in amounts of less than $5,000, a price level below which discounts are uncommon. As the firm explains, the customer no-longer has to call an account executive. He simply fills out a hrief form and maila it with his check to Merrill Lynch, following instructions print -. ed on the order form. Ordinarily -- the customer does not deal with a broker when he makes such a trade - and he also loses some services, such as instant exe-cution. Merrill Lynch executes buy orders on the opening trade the day after they arrive. Sell orders are similarly de-layed until the following morning's opening and are delayed further if the customer does not have his cer-tificate at the Merrill Lynch office. The firm encourages Share-huilder customers to leave shares in "street name" rather than resistered under rather than registered under their own names.)

The main idea is for cus-tomers to buy for the long term, huilding a portfolio over the years. One does not have to huy in round lots for sav-ings. Actually the biggest dis-counts apply to small-dollar amounts. Investors can buy on a dollar basis rather than

When an individual buys, he simply decides which stock or stocks he waots and determines how many dollars he wants to invest in each. Merrill Lynch will buy frac, tions of shares for the customer, if necessary. For example, an investor could buy $100 worth of LB.M., even though a single share costs. more than $200.

Dividends are automati-cally nsed to buy more of the same stock unless the customer gives instructions to the contrary. A spokesman for Merrill

Paine Webber pushes its dis-count brokerage plan. Indi-vidual registered representatives at the firms could hardly be expected to do so since they receive a per-centage of the gross com-mission on trades they handle. Bache Halsay Stuart's Termtrade is designed to help customers who wish to take losses early. A customer who losses early A customer who closes out a position within 35 calendar days of the time the established it pays half the normal Bache commission when he sells.

A spokesman for Bache said, "We use 35 days be-cause that allows clients to take tax losses and repur-chase." Under the "wash sale" rule of the Internal Revenue Service, an. individual cannot establish a deductible tax loss if he re-purchases stock io the same company within 30 days. The Bache spokesman said the firm handles 50 to 200 trades a day for clients seeking the half-price break on the way out of a position. Industry sources say that Bache does a total of more than 10,000 trades a day out of its 50 offices. Several other hrokerage firms once offered a break to customers who trade out of a, position within a few. weeks. More than one such firm is believed to have discontinued the practice, how ever.

For only $29, half the regular rate, you'll receive all the new full-page reports to be issued in the next 12 weeks on the more than 1600 stocks and 75 industries regularly monitored by The Value Line Investment Survey.

These new reports will update and replace reports already filad and indexed in tha investors "Referance Service binders which you will hava received as a bonus. Filing takes less than a -minute a week.

This special introductory trial is offerad to new subscribers only because a large percentage of those who once try Value Line for three months. elect to continue as full-term subscribers at standard rates. Tha increase in circulation thus effected anablas us to provida a comprehensiva investmant survey to axisting subscribers at a much lower fee than would be required with a smaller circulation.

You'll find it conveniant to have the investors Referance Service at your fingertips whenever you need facts and figures, as wall as Value Line's projected performance ratings on mora than 1600 idely-hald stocks in 75 industries.

You'll also get analyses and forecasts of the national aconomy and the stock market ... guidance on current invastment policy ... plus Value Line's "Especially Recommended Stock of the Week."

To take advantaga of this special introductory offar and to receive the investors Reference Service as a bonus in addition and without extra charge, aimply fill in and mail the coupon below.

The plan for settlement de-fines the metropolitan area in which customers may apply for claims as New York City, the four outlying New York coun-ties, eight New Jersey counties and Fairfield County, Conn. Purchases may have been made in either city or suburban stores. Last spring during prelimi-nary hearings on the class-action litigation, Judge Werker was told that both Saks and sendorf were considering mak-ing a compromise affer. John Schafer, Bergdorf's lawyer, said at that time, "We are settling this case for a number of obvious reasons, one of which is that, of course, it does consisting for generate adverse publicity for the stores. But we are not con-ceding liability." Pending in San Francisco Similar class action suits are pending in San Francisco against Federated Department Stores, which operates the L Magnin specialty store chain on the West Coast, and the Saks Fifth Avenue atores there. Why Holt pinpoints selected... Utility Stocks Yielding Over 9%

....Not only for high current income but long-term capital growth potential too

It is not at all surprising that many knowing investors are now looking into utili-ty stocks with intensifying interest.

For this particular group of stocks, the bear market started way back in 1965, when the Dow Jones utility index began a 9-year decline that erased nearly 65% of its value. During the same period, however, the net income and dividends of some of these stocks have followed an upward course.

The result of these cross-trends is that a number of stocks in this power group now yield over 9%. But high yields alone are not enough, says T.J. Holt. (For instance, a stock with shaky earnings and dividends should sell on a high-yield ba-sis.) What investors should look for now. Holt advises, are rich yields of up to 10% that are also clearly supported by (a) reasonable assurance that the current dividend rates are safe, (b) a long-term record of past earnings and dividend growth, and (c) solidly based prospects for future dividend hikes.

Without doubt, the industry has been confronted by many problems, including rising fuel cost, regulatory and environmental red tape, and lofty interest rates. However, we believe the worst is over. In many cases, the stocks amply discount the remaining problems. Moreover, the developments have begun to help—not hurt—the industry.

SPECIFIC RECOMMENDATIONS

Holt's latest report on the Electric Utility Industry carefully documents why we think the worst is over for the industry and why unusual opportunities have emerged in this group. It also presents a list of eight attractive utility stocks, four of which are specifically recommended for current purchase. You can receive the complete report-including specific recommendations-as a bonus with a 2month Introductory Subscription to The Holt Investment Advisory for $10 (regular rates $24). Use the coupon today. ______

> Allied Chemical Plant The Allied Chemical Corpo-ration, Morris Township, N.J., ration, Morris Township, N.J., announced authorization of $45 millioo of capital ex-penditures to rehabilitate the Detroit foundry coke plant of its Semet-Solvay division. The project is to be com-pleted by the end of 1977.

Ford to Increase Truck Production

The Ford Motor Company announced plans for making its Norfolk. Va., plant the largest producer of Ford record work force of 2,050 people,

Although Ford officials gave no figure oo how many trucks would he produced at ward, according to a financial set analyst. While margins should be helped by larger semi-con-ductor volume and increased the Norfolk plant, Donald W. Merrick, plant operatioos manager io Dearboo, Mich., said Ford expected to sell more light trucks this year than ever before. The record for such sales was 1,048,000 dropped by 14 percent in recent years, and by fully 35 percent at top levels, prodocing a significant decline in indivation among Britisb executives, according to the busiaessmen present.

David Orr, chairmen of that while most companies were not actually losing executives through emigration, "it is hard to get people to come back from abroad onca they've gone abroad." As for conditions in the United States, Paul A. Volcker, president of tha Federal Reserve Bank of New York, warsed that the American economy was entering a "tougher phase" of recovery. The sconomy will henceforth need; the motor power of Voicker said, and both actors are uncertain. "The big question in the next" 12 month is whether we'll have enough invest-ment to provide the capacity to continue our expansion without more inflation", he commented, adding that, with long investment lead times, "it is almost too late

In-general, the assembled corporate chieftains retained a skeptical, wait-and-see attipude toward the budding Britisb recovery. One leading New, York hanker was typically blunt: "Britain is just like New York City, with all the same problems," he said.

A New Trial Urged In Obscenity Case Involving Sex Films

WASHINGTON, July 9 (UPI) --The Justice Department urged the Supreme Court today operators coovicted of showing Ky., on the grouod that the defendants were victims of a shift in court standards on obscenity.

The Supreme Court egreed last March 1 to hear an appeal of the convictions of the operators of Cinema X theater for showing "Deep Throat" and several other films.

The Justice Department argued that the convictions obtained by its prosecutors were unfair because the obsce-oity staodard used io Federal District Court was different from the standard that pre-vailed when the defendants transported the films in ioterstate commerce. At the time of the alleged offenses, a department brief said, one key yardstick in pre-vailing use was whether a sex movie "is utterly without redeeming social value." But by the time of their trial courts had adopted a new vardstick that is considered much easier to prove: whether the movie "lacks serious liter-ary, artistic, political or scien-tific value."

The outcome of the Newport case is considered likely to affect the conviction of 11 individuals and three corporations in a Memohis, Tenn., case involving "Deep Throat" be-cause the time elements in-
